KELRO WHITEMAN, Superintendent

SUPERINTENDENT

Kelro Whiteman, competent and understanding superintendent of schools, took office in 1938 after many years of successful high school principalship. Highlight in the school calendar of events are the visits of Mr. Whiteman.

PRINCIPAL

From the day classes were organized to commencement activities the tiniest first grader to the most sophisticated senior found Mr. Pible to be their best friend. Coming to Huntertown from Ossian Mr. Prible has completed his first year as a successful and progressive high school principal. Students, teachers and community friends wish him many more outstanding years at the Eel River-Perry School.

TRUSTEES

Managing the affairs of the school David Hyndman and Almon Smith represent Eel River and Perry Township respectfully. Their continued interest and capable administration have helped to make the Eel River-Perry Consolidation one of the outstanding rural school of the state.

CLASS HISTORY

The history of the Class of '46 began back in 1934 with several little diamonds such as Lloyd Gump, Dick Pepe, Pauline Pulver, Myron Warner, Bryce Fitch, Jack Grim and Effie Botts. As they continued on through school, they picked up Norma Fox, Alvera Aikins, Jean Campbell, Richard Yearling, Don Genth, Bob Richey, Bob Richey, Bob Gordon, Richard Horstmeyer, Alan Herendeen, Nondis Becktell, Margaret Overly, Marilyn Smith, Phyllis Smith, George Arnold, Lee Freeman, Norman Plummer, Lorraine Opliger, Howard Hess, Donald McKinley, Robert Herdman, and Elizabeth Jones. Each year these diamonds became a little brighter and they were pushed on because they were becoming more valuable all the time.

Upon reaching high school we added many more jewels to our treasure chest. Genevieve Guiff, Luella Bloom, Marjorie Smith, Gladys Leiter, Darlene Butt, Barbara Van Anda, George Van Anda, William Lutter, Elizabeth wise, Jean Davis, Maryann Keener, Betty Easterday, Richard Moore, and Joyce Branning. During our freshman year, all the jewels had a weiner roast at Blanchards. Next year we became silly sophomores with our greenness wearing off. This year we added Bruce McComb to our chest. Also this year we had two class parties. First a wiener roast at Horstmeyers and later a wiener roast and hay-ride at Isaac Waltons. Miss Greenawalt and Mr. Smith were our sponsors.

In 1945 we were jolly juniors. Under the careful guidance of Mr. Fryback and Mrs. Kincaid, we had a very successful year. Lloyd Gump was the class president, Dick Pepe, vice president; Jean Campbell, secretary; and Darlene Butt, treasurer. This year we had one class party and four dances. We gave a banquet in honor of the seniors of of '45. We used a circus for our theme and we supported the banquet by selling Christmas and occasional cards. We also ordered our class rings and gave "New Fires" as our class play with Jean Davis, Bruce McComb, Darlene Butt, and Donald Genth playing the leading roles. Donald Doster joined our class this year.

Finally! 1946. Just what we had been looking forward to, for eleven years. We added Bud Gallaway and Anna Adams to our class. "Launched but not anchored" was our class motto; our class flower was a white rose, and our class colors were maroon and white. We published The Black and Gold Flash and the Citadel. Our class play was "A Case of Springtime" and the leading role was played by Lloyd Gump as Bob Parker. The class left an electric clock for the assembly as a presentation to the school. The baccalaureate was held on Easter Sunday and commencement the following Wednesday. To make our last year really the most successful we find Richard Horstmeyer, president, leading them; Joyce Branning, vice president, helping them accomplish their aim when she is needed; Darlene Butt, secretary, has been kept busy reading them their rules; and Richard Pepe, treasurer, held their finances above the red.

We have now received the treasures of graduation and are ready to pass on into another part of our future life and have given the treasure of being seniors to the class of '47.

HONOR STUDENTS

When the final grades were averaged, the class of '46 found that Elizabeth Wise and Effie Belle Botts lead their class in scholastic attainment.

ELIZABETH WISE

a transfer from Noble County, graduated from the LaOtto grade school. Her four years at Huntertown won her the reputation of a conscientious and brilliant student.

EFFIE BELLE BOTTS

aside from her junior year at Topeka, Indiana, has spent her whole school career at Huntertown. Besides attaining proficiency in all school subjects, Effie Belle is particularly noted for her excellence in art.

SENIOR SPONSORS

We, the senior class would like to give part of our treasure to the two people who have helped us in winning it in our last year of school, Miss Greenawalt and Mr. Prible. At times they have been strict and we have not gotten to do just what we wanted but we find now that they were right. We are thanking you for helping us in our last year of school.

Thank you again.

CLASS PROPHECY

From the Treasure Chest:

The sun is just rising as we approach Huntertown in the year of 1897. Buzzing down the new super highway in our Ford of the Future at two hundred miles per hour, we encounter a sign hanging on a post. It informs us that we are approaching the one and only city which has changed in every way except driving. We find the same old city of slow drivers. The population at the present day is too large to count.

Bringing our new tin can to a halt in front of one of the coziest little cottages in the town, we climb out of the car, trip up the walk, and are about to ring the doorbell when whom do we see gossiping over the back fence but the two old maids of the class of '46, Elizabeth Jones and Marjorie Smith. They are arguing about which one is going to get the new bachelor, Robert Richey, who recently moved in next door. Whoever gets him will have to be a good cook for we hear that Robert never got married because he couldn't find anyone who could cook enough for him to eat.

Finally getting around to ringing the doorbell again, we meet, flying out on the end of the broom, that happy-go-lucky little guy, Lloyd Gump, now the disobedient husband of the former Nondis Becktell. It seems that Lloyd loves to start the day off with a bang and besides he can save three cents if he goes part way on the broom. With this thre cents me can buy all the more for his lovable wife. Dodging out of the way, we find ourselves just outside of the nursery door. Just then we hear a loud scream which came from within the next room. We rush to the door and peek through the keyhole to find their nursemaid, Donald McKinley, who has just taken the bottle away from the kids because he was getting hungry himself.

Once again out in the fresh air, we notice Don Genth, now a doctor, coming towards us in great haste. In one hand he has a satchel full of pink liver pills and dangling on his other arm in his beautiful nurse, Betty Easterday. He is on his way to administer first-aid to Jack "Bone" Grim's kids, who have a dreaded disease called "bonitis". In order to support his wife, Barbara Van Anda, and ten kids, Jack works hard each day scrubbing floors at the city morgue.

Glancing above at the big courthouse clock, we see it is nearly time for a great trial to take place—Warner vs. McComb. Myron Warner has brought suit against Bruce McComb, the handsomest man in town, for running away with his charming wife, Elizabeth Wise, who has been seen at several football games with Bruce. Myron withdraws the charges when his wife breaks down and cries in his arms. Myron just can't stand to hear a woman cry.

Our next stop is at the Exquisite Hotel owned by George Gallaway, Jr. We find the hotel so mammoth and beautifully designed that it is impossible to describe it. There on a pedestal we find George, dressed in his bathing suit, posing for his wife, Effie Botts. In this way Effie can keep him from chasing the hotel maid, Norma Fox. He tries to keep her from getting her hands dirty in the scrub water. At the present time we find Norma decked out in a pair of overalls with a red hanky tied around her neck and litttle cap gun in her pocket playing "'cop and robber" with the hotel chef, Howard Hess. Howard wants to learn how to capture the one girl in his life, Joyce Branning, who enjoys writing the Dorothy Dix column for the town newspaper.

Further on we run into the Collosal Theater owned and operated by William Lutter. One of the star features of the day is the Frank Sinatra of '87, Richard Pepe, who appears singing "Throw Me One Dozen Tomatores." Since no one in the audience is fullfilling Richard's wish, his twin boys, Ornery and Corny, have decided to answer their pap's request by throwing him one dozen tomatoes. No wonder his wife, Genevieve Guiff, is gray haired. At any moment her husband might be thrown out of the theater.

Another attraction is the greatest ballet dancing team of all times, Norman Plummer and his wife Gladys Leiter. It really took lots of persuasion from Gladys to get Norman to do theatrical work rather than settle down and raise a flock of chickens.

The George Arnold Modeling School is our next stop. Here we find George busily watching his two most outstanding models, Lorraine Opliger and Phyllis Smith, who are modeling the latest diaper model bathing suits. His wife, Jean Ann Campbell, is down on her knees begging him to run for mayor, but George seems to find this job far more interesting.

Farther on we come across the Horstmeyer Riding Academy. Richard is running a nice little business with twenty horses on his fifty-acre ranch. We find his old school-day heart-throb, Anna Adams, now his wife, teaching all the little "Horsies" to ride.

Looking up we see a big bird—or is it a plane? Did superman really come to life? No! It's only Bob Gordon, now a window washer by profession, washing windows on the twenty-ninth floor of the Huntertown National Bank. With his fifteen-dollar a week salary he has managed to find and support his beautiful blond wife, Maryann Keener. Maryann loves to prepare her husband's favorite food of sauerkraut and banana splits.

Walking down Main Street, we see a small building being erected by the Richard Moore Construction Company. The owner of the company is busily pushing along the work on the Margaret Overly Day Nursery. It will be managed by Richard Yearling, a nurse maid by profession, who wishes to install dresser drawers for children's beds. This is the only job that Richard could find where he really enjoys himself.

Our next stop is at the attorney's office, where we find Donald Doster in a very disagreeable mood with his wife, Jean Davis, sitting on his knee. Don is trying to persuade Jean to give him a divorce for he has suddenly fallen in love with the world-noted sword swallower, Luella Bloom. Jean doesn't mind giving him a divorce since she has been making eyes at a certain Robert Tonkel, but she hates the idea of Luella teaching the four little Dosters to eat swords for breakfast instead of their usual Wheaties.

Coming out into the fresh air again we hear some hot music just like that from Harlem. Man, was it hot! It's Alan Herendeen and his Red Pepper Orchestra playing the latest boogie-woogie piece called "A Red Hair Lay on Pa's Shoulder." Bryce Fitch and his dancing partner, Alvera Aikins, are showing the latest boogie-woogie dance. The rug was worn to shreds and now the floor is turning to sawdust.

Slipping out in the open again, whom do we see buzzing by on a motorcycle but Darlene Butt, Huntertown's chief cop, on her way to arrest Lee Freeman who has just held up the Huntertown National Bank and has escaped with fifty dollars in pennies.

We are next greeted by George Van Anda on roller skates. He is being chased by his wife, Pauline Pulver, who is carrying a rollin' pin. Poor George kissed the moose on the wall instead of his wife when returning from work this evening. George runs a little beauty salon on the edge of town so he can keep his hair in ship-shape.

Night is slowly creeping upon us as we make our last visit. This time it's the Herdman Mansion. When arriving, we find Robert gracefully combing the beautiful hair of his wife, Marilyn Smith. Robert is now the greatest poet of the twentieth century.

Slowly our eyes begin to close as we are talking of the good old days of '46. Finally we are resting and sleeping quietly when all of a sudden there's a loud noise that startles us. We awaken to find that the bell has just rung ending another exciting class period.

END

Class Will

WILLS

We, the graduating Class of '46 of the city of Huntertown, county of Allen, and state of Indiana, being of sound mind and memory, do hereby make, publish, and declare this to be our last will and testament, hereby revoking any will or wills heretofore made by us.

SOPHOMORES

CITADEL

Meet the staff of the Citadel as appointed by Mrs. Kincaid. First of all the editor-in-chief of this yearbook, which the staff decided to call the "CITADEL", as of previous years, is Joyce Branning. She has worked hard and done very well. To help her is Betty Easterday, assistant editor. The faculty editor is Jean Campbell. The senior editors are Jean Davis, Lorraine Opliger and Barbara Van Anda. For the rest of the high school the editors are junior, Margaret Overly; sophomore, Nondis Becktell; freshman, Pauline Pulver. The grade editor is Norma Fox.

In charge of the organization are Darlene Butt, Maryann Keener and Elizabeth Wise. Keeping us posted in the sports world are George Arnold, George Gallaway and George Van Anda.

The "little man with the camera" is Myron Warner, who manages to take pictures just when everyone looks his prettiest. On the business staff the business manager is Richard Pepe and his assistant is William Lutter. The sales manager is Richard Horstmeyer and Lloyd Gump is the assistant manager. They sold subscriptions to the Citadel. The advertising manager is Robert Gordon. Don Genth, Richard Yearling and Norman Plummer helped him as assistant managers.

In charge of the publicity are Alan Herendeen and Robert Herdman. As they always leave the best until last you must meet our able sponsor, Mrs. Kincaid, under whose direction we were able to produce this Citadel.

BLACK AND GOLD FLASH

The Black and Gold Flash with its twenty-three staff members keeps the school buzzing with the latest news and events of the year. The paper is published monthly by the journalism class. This is the second consecutive year of the year of the Black and Gold Flash, and the staff with the sincere teaching of Miss Greenawalt has added many new improvements to the paper.

Digging up news stories and assigning them to the staff members is the job of the assignment editor, Joyce Branning. Make-up editors are Darlene Butt, Jean Davis and Richard Moore. Writing the interesting features of the paper are editors Lloyd Gump and Bruce McComb. Art editor, Phyllis Smith, takes care of all art work. Copy editors are Betty Easterday and Lorraine Opliger.

Keeping the students posted in all sports are editors Richard Horstmeyer and Robert Gordon. Jean Ann Campbell has the job of exchanging the Flash with other schools of the county and sending the Flash to out-of-school subscribers.

Richard Yearling and Norman Plummer handle the business of the paper, and Robert Richey and Pauline Pulver are the office managers. Jack Grim takes care of the many newsletters sent out to service men who have attended Huntertown School. Circulation managers are Don Genth and Lee Freeman. The typists for the Flash are Norma Fox, Maryann Keener, Barbara Van Anda and Alvera Aikens.

The staff of the Black and Gold Flash also conducted a paper drive during which they collected seven tons of paper.

DRUM MAJORETTES

Oh, have you seen the pretty little girl in the high hat? That's Norma Fox, Huntertown's majorette, who is assisted by the two baton twirlers, always Johnny on the spot, Peggy Hefty and Diane Amstutz.

JUNIOR BAND

The junior band is under the direction of Mr. Sloffer. They hope soon to be promoted to the senior band group.

These funny little characters are marionettes made by the first year art class, under the direction of Miss Dill. During the year the class presented a marionette show, the play being written by he sophoome English class. The following students made marionettes: Bob Hadley, a sailor; Phil Hyndman, Jack Bleekman, a thug; Frances Dunten, Albert Meyers, another thug; Wilma Taner, Norma Branning, a maid; Yvonne Kell, Sue McLane, the mother; Keith Dice, Doris Aikens, the boarder; Rosemary Minton, Suzanne Bobay, one twin; Deloris Weaver, Ruth Widner, another twin; Dallas Lindemuth, Joe Huber, a soldier.

From stirring military marches to solid boogie-woogie members of the band find Mr. Sloffer an inspiring director.

The band's first public appearance occurred at the initial home basketball meet adding color and rhythm to sporting events. The performances of the band were looked forward to by all spectators. Intricate marching patterns and maneuvering caused many enthusiastic "ohs" and "ahs" from the fans.

In order that the school might have a more singable loyalty song, the band members chose the tune of "Wave the Flag of Old Chicago" as another school song in the Huntertown students' repertoire.

At the Allen County Band Festival held March 23 the Huntertown group was chosen as the clinic band which played several numbers that were publicly criticized by Hans Schweiger, Director of the Fort Wayne Philharmonic Orchestra.

Three students, Richard Pepe, Bryce Fitch and Howard Hess, are completing their senior year in the band. Several band members entered solo and group contests held by the Northeastern Indiana Band Association at Central Catholic High School in Fort Wayne.

SECRETARIES FOR TEACHERS

At the beginning of the school year, members of the advanced typing class were assigned as secretaries to several teachers. Their work included mimeograph and ditto material as well as typing.

JUNIOR PLAY

The Class of '47 presented "Tomboy" in the high school gymnasium, December 6 and 7. It was a three-act comedy under the direction of Miss Enley. Delores Weaver played the lead part as the tomboy.

Here Delores Fritz portrays the dressmaker and the mother, Betty Steinbarger, are helping the two older girls, Eloise and Dorothy, played by Helen Gump and La Vern May, make alterations on their wedding gowns.

Here Delores Weaver is proudly displaying her trophy won as 1945 Women's Golf Champion.

COACH BRANDYBERRY

During the two years Mr. Brandyberry, better known as "Brandy", has been at Huntertown, he has produced outstanding teams. When he is not busy with basketball, he teaches health and history. It seems he likes school very well for when he is not at Huntertown he attends Indiana University. More power to "Brandy" for bigger and better teams in the future.

CHEER LEADERS

Our cheer leaders this year consist of two girls. They are Norma Fox and Barbara Searfoss or just "Norm" and "Barb". They have been doing a good job in cheering the boys on to victory. It is the second year for Norma as cheer leader. She is an outstanding member of the senior class. It is Barbara's first year in the field. She is a little brunette junior with lots of pep.

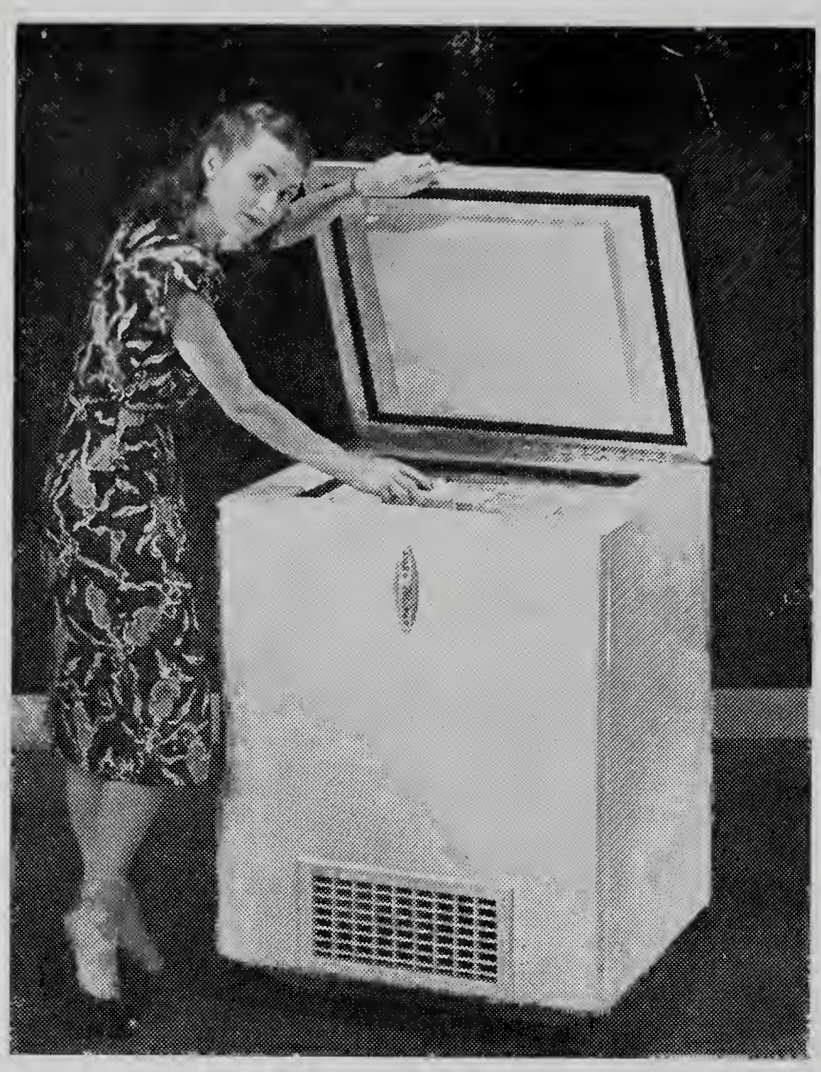
Your Post War Home Locker



which will fit snugly into your kitchen and give you frozen food storage right in your own home.

Our new frozen food Home Locker is a beautifully finished white enameled kitchen table with a conveniently hinged top under which you will be able to stare 150 pounds of frozen food right where you need it most—in your own kitchen.

This ultra-modern convenience is so greatly in demand that we must schedule our deliveries in the same order we receive your reservation. We urge you to drop in at your earliest convenience so we may explain this newest frozen food equipment we have obtained for our community.
